

Hopeline® from Verizon (www.verizonwireless.com/hopeline) supports the domestic violence community by providing wireless phones and cash grants to local shelters and non-profit organizations throughout the country that focus on domestic violence prevention and awareness.

Thanks to community support, in 2011, Hopeline collected more than 1 million phones, enabling Verizon Wireless to give more than $4.2 million in cash grants to nearly 450 domestic violence prevention and awareness programs, and activate about 29,000 Hopeline phones with service nationwide.

Your phone drive will help continue to put phones and important resources in the hands of domestic violence victims.

To participate in the Hopeline phone drive, simply bring in your old wireless phones, batteries and accessories in any condition from any provider and drop them in the collection bins at your location. All collected phones will be donated to Hopeline from Verizon and turned into support for domestic violence victims.

Following is some additional information about Hopeline. We are excited about this opportunity to help our communities and hope you are too. Keep an eye out for the Hopeline collection bins – they'll arrive in your location soon. Aside from your ongoing collections, individuals can also drop phones off at Verizon Wireless Communications stores nationwide or use the postage-paid label www.verizonwireless.com/hopelinemailinglabel.

About Hopeline

Hopeline from Verizon accepts wireless phones and accessories in any condition from any carrier for reuse and recycling. The phones are then refurbished or recycled in an environmentally sound way. Refurbished phones – complete with 3,000 minutes of wireless service – are provided to local domestic violence organizations or local government and law enforcement agencies for use with their domestic violence clients.
